Weinert showed to excellent advantage at the start, for he was cool, collected and cautious, though always ready to take advantage of every opening. Dillon had great difficulty in getting in close, for Weinert's boxing was superb. Charley held off Jack with clean cut usappy left Jabs.

Repeatedly in the earlier rounds Weinert would land half a dozen lefts without a return. Dillon shook the blows off with a sneer, content once in a while to land an overhand right or left to the head. Weinert lost his steam in these first four rounds.
